THE DEBUT FOR A NEW WEBSITE DEVOTED TO CAPTIONING

By Michelle Gross

If you’d like to have more information and input into captioning services, you may want to visit the website of the “collaborative for Communication Access Via Captioning (CCAC) <http://www.ccacaptioning.org/>”.

The new group defines itself as a “grassroots not-for-profit captioning advocacy community working for inclusion of text for spoken language wherever needed.” The group is made up of all volunteers and includes a forum and issues about all manner of captioning, including Communication Access Real-Time Translation (C.A.R.T.) services. The site is just getting going, and is still a bit “buggy;” however, it pays to take a look and bookmark it for later use. It will be interesting to see how this group develops. I’m not quite ready to join up, but I will follow their activities with interest and may sign up as a member (free) at some point. The group just came out with the first issue of their Newsletter: http://ccacaptioning.com/2012_CCACnews_issue1.pdf.

HEALTH APPS – FOR TEENS

(from D&C of 1-4-2012)

There are even apps for scare tactics these days, for example, what will happen if you listen to music that’s too loud on iPods. The free Auto-Old My Music is designed to scare teens into turning down the volume. It lets them hear Lady Gaga or Kanye West the way their hearing-impaired parents would—muffled and muddy, just like it sounds to someone who can’t hear the high pitches any more.

An estimated 6.5 million youths between the ages of 12 and 19 already have some hearing loss. The app is only compatible with Apple products and is free at playitdown.org. Parents of younger children can simply adjust and lock volume controls. Teenagers, however, can out-master most any parent on a music gadget, so the apps are intended to get them thinking about hearing loss. – Gannett

WELCOME FROM TOWN OF PERINTON !

Dear Rochester Chapter Members,

I am very excited about Perinton's role in hosting the Rochester Chapter of HLAA's seventh annual 5K Walk4Hearing on May 6th! What better place to host a 5K walk than Trail Town USA? The site of your walk, the Erie Canal Heritage Trail, was one of the three trail systems in Perinton that helped earn us this national honor. It is a community asset of which we are very proud. As a twice-designated "Top 100 Best Places to Live in America," we are extremely cognizant of those with life challenges. The Rochester/Monroe County area is particularly aware of those in our midst with hearing disabilities, especially with the excellent resources present at NTID. This fundraising effort and its very impressive goal of $45,000 to support national and local educational efforts is a natural outreach effort and certainly will be a major step (pun intended!) in reaching your organization's goals. We also wish you success in achieving your goal of having 500 participants attend this exciting event!

This is Perinton's 200th year! We certainly are pleased to welcome you and to have had a Walk4Hearing in our midst for seven of those 200 years. We wish you balmy Spring weather and a great turnout!

Sincerely,

James E. Smith, Perinton Town Supervisor

THE MAIL-ORDER HEARING AID

By Bruce Nelson

A hearing aid for only $30? My Audiologist charges me hundreds or thousands of dollars! What gives?

The Turbo-Ear hearing aid sells for $29.95 plus shipping and handling. It is often advertised in magazines or on TV. The ads claim things like "Fits in either ear," "Almost invisible," "Clear sound reception," "Reduces background noise," "Rechargeable – no batteries to buy, which could save you thousands."

Our Technology Committee was asked to look at these mail-order hearing aids to find out if they do work, and if they could replace expensive hearing aids. The committee purchased one, and asked Dr. John McNamara and Dr. Andrea Segmond of Ontario Hearing Centers to test it. Not unexpected...Dr. McNamara's first comment was, "What a piece of junk!" However, to back up the statement, he provided the following details from the testing: The Turbo Ear aid had an equivalent noise rating of 69dB (more noise than speech). Usable speech gain was 3dB, all in the low frequencies with nothing in the high frequencies. Therefore, there is no speech improvement.

He also noted that the external metal contacts for recharging the batteries were quite sharp and could injure the wearer in some circumstances. The hearing aid is far from invisible. It is on the bulky side and when inserted in the ear as far as possible, it still sticks out a bit. It's quite visible!

I don't know about you, but I wear my hearing aids more than 7 hours a day. But the rechargeable batteries only last 7 hours, and they need 12 hours to recharge, so you might need to carry an extra one with you. And you won't save thousands. The worst case of a battery a week at the highest prices locally would only set you back about $100.

Finally, the real-life test. I wore it in my ear for a while. While it made a few things sound "better," it didn't help listening to the TV or carrying on a conversation. The conversation was actually worse since it has no venting like a proper hearing aid. It was a bit uncomfortable – the “fits-all” plug isn’t even close to feeling like a hearing aid molded to your own ear.

There is a reason that real hearing aids cost as much as they do. The manufacturers have invested a lot of time and money designing the marvelous active circuits that make them programmable and squeezing it all into a tiny package along with the microphones, speakers, and battery. And your Audiologist will identify your specific needs and recommend the correct hearing aid, will tune it for your hearing loss, and provide ongoing service.

If you want to throw your money away, then buy a mail-order hearing aid “as seen on TV.” If you want to improve your hearing, see an Audiologist.

MICHAEL CHOROST TO SPEAK AT RIT/NTID

By Mary Ellen Tait

The Edmund Lyon Memorial Lectureship Series, presented by RIT/NTID and the Rochester School for the Deaf, continues to feature exciting researchers and scholars. The final lecture for the 2011-2012 academic year will be:

A recipient of a Cochlear Implant, he has written about communication dynamics and technology. His works explore the condition and experience of being Deaf in a hearing world; and through his presentation, we will have the opportunity to consider anew what we do and how we do it. For presenter biography and event details, go to: www.rit.edu/ntid/lyon.

The lecture is free and open to the public, and there is no charge for parking. An FM assistive listening system is available for use, and Sign Language interpreting provided.

ASSISTANCE TO OBTAIN HEARING AIDS FOR INDIVIDUALS WITH FINANCIAL HARDSHIP

By Sheila Dalzell, Au.D.

If you are in need of hearing aids, and are not able to afford a hearing aid(s), contact your Audiologist. He/she can do a diagnostic audiologic evaluation to determine the amount of hearing loss and discuss the best type of hearing aid(s) for you. Discuss your financial concerns with your Audiologist so he/she can provide you with information regarding the best agency to contact for those individuals with financial need. Most of the agencies or charitable organizations require an audiologic evaluation from an Audiologist to apply for assistance.

Organizations that your Audiologist may recommend are:

1. Medicaid and State Aid. The main Medicaid office is in Rochester located on Westfall Road. We are fortunate that NY State Medicaid has a very generous benefit for hearing aids for individuals that qualify for Medicaid.
2. Lions Hearing Foundation. The Lions Hearing Foundation has a local organization and a national organization. Your Audiologist can provide you with contact information and explain the program to you. (Info from Joe Kozelsky—phone, 1-607-398-7216)
3. VESID. Vocational Educational Association for Individuals with Disabilities is located on South Union Street. At your appointment, your Audiologist can determine if you may be a candidate for VESID and tell you how to initiate the process.

There are additional resources that your Audiologist can suggest; these are the primary resources within our community.

Also, go to: www.sertoma.org.

Katie Leclerc plays a deaf girl in the ABC Family drama “Switched at Birth,” and while she’s not deaf in real life, she does have Meniere’s disease--a genetic disorder that makes her hard of hearing sometimes causing vertigo. The show is on Channel 31, Tuesdays, at 7pm.

ASKING WEGMANS TO USE TECHNOLOGY TO WARN OF RECALLS – By Daniel Foster, Chili, (Excerpt from article appearing in D&C of 2/8/12)

Since the Rochester area is home to one of the largest concentrations of deaf (and HOH) people in the entire country, it's time for Wegmans to do more than simply send automated phone calls to affected Shoppers Club members who have purchased recalled items. I applaud their efforts to communicate, but strongly feel more could be done to reach more people, at minimal cost.

With Wegman's 21st Century technological infrastructure, I sincerely believe they could expand options for product recall notification to include opt-in cellphone text messages, and emails. Both are as quick and affordable as the current automated phone call approach, and they would also benefit far more people than just the deaf and those with hearing loss.

If You're New, This is for You.

More than 36 million people in the US have a hearing loss which can hinder daily communication-- one in five people! By age 65, one in three Americans has a hearing loss.

This invisible condition affects the quality of life of the individuals with hearing loss as well as family, friends, co-workers and everyone with whom they interact. HLAA believes people with hearing loss can participate successfully in today's world. The mission of HLAA is to open the world of communications to people with hearing loss through advocacy, information, education, and support.

HLAA is the largest international consumer organization dedicated to the well-being of people who do not hear well.

To join, please see inside back page. HLAA has more than 200 chapters and 14 state organizations. Welcome!
